Teachers Prepared

On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

Key terms in this section are listed below. Click on the link to view the definition(s) in the glossary.

- Academic Major

Teachers Prepared by Subject Area

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by subject area for academic year 2022-23.

For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Subject area" refers to the subject area(s) an individual has been prepared to teach. An individual can be counted in more than one subject area. If no individuals were prepared in a particular subject area, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

What are CIP Codes?

No teachers prepared in academic year 2022-23

If your program has no teachers prepared, check the box above and leave the table below blank (or clear responses already entered).

What are CIP codes? The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) provides a taxonomic scheme that supports the accurate tracking and reporting of fields of study and program completions activity. CIP was originally developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in 1980, with revisions occurring in 1985, 1990, and 2000 (<https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/cipcode/Default.aspx?y=55>).

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2022-23. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education–Chemistry" category.

>> Program Assurances

Respond to the following assurances. Teacher preparation programs should be prepared to provide documentation and evidence, when requested, to support the following assurances. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(A\)\(iii\); §206\(b\))

Program Assurances

Note: This section is preloaded from the prior year's IPRC.

1. Program preparation responds to the identified needs of the local educational agencies or States where the program completers are likely to teach, based on past hiring and recruitment trends.

- Yes
 No

2. Preparation is closely linked with the needs of schools and the instructional decisions new teachers face in the classroom.

- Yes
 No

3. Prospective special education teachers are prepared in core academic subjects and to instruct in core academic subjects.

- Yes
 No
 Program does not prepare special education teachers

4. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students with disabilities.

- Yes
 No

5. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to limited English proficient students.

- Yes
 No

6. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students from low-income families.

- Yes
 No

7. Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.

- Yes
 No

8. Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

Both elementary and secondary candidates spend considerable time in the schools prior to their student teaching. Elementary education candidates are part time in the elementary school the second semester of their junior year and full time in the elementary school both semesters of the entire senior year. This immersion totals 1096 hours of supervised clinical field experience for the elementary education major. In addition, the university faculty and the elementary teachers collaborate in the delivery of instruction and supervision of the candidates. University faculty are in the elementary schools delivering instruction the entire final year of the program. Secondary education majors spend 80 hours of supervised field experience in middle or high schools prior to their student teaching experience. These 80 hours include shadowing teachers in their professional responsibilities as well as teaching at least one lesson plan. In addition, the content faculty are providing supervision and they are connecting regularly with the cooperating teachers about trends in the classrooms. The field experiences and the work with the school faculty ensure that candidates are very familiar with the needs of the local educational agencies and that training is closely linked to the needs of schools. In addition to the clinical field experience, the candidates are prepared throughout their program to complete the Teaching and Learning Portfolio. This preparation requires them to make instructional decisions. Also, they have been teaching in a classroom prior to student teaching, which provides practice in instructional decision making. Etiology, assessment, characteristics, and educational considerations are presented for each of the following: learning disabilities; attention deficit-hyperactivity disorder; emotional and behavior disorders; intellectual and developmental disabilities; speech and language disorders; deafness and hearing loss; visual impairments; autism spectrum disorders; physical and health disabilities; severe and multiple disabilities; gifted and talented. Additional topics include knowledge of inclusion, consultation and collaboration, legal issues, parent issues, materials and facilities, and multicultural issues. In preparation for working with children with limited English proficiency, candidates learn how culture affects the learning process such as cognitive style (field independence and field sensitivity), and the effects of cultural dissonance. In addition, they learn instructional methods commonly used with English Language Learners such as Bilingual Education, English as a Second Language and Sheltered English. Special emphasis is placed on the use of differentiated instruction for use with ELL students. Activities which provide training in the aspects of cultural diversity include the candidates being required to write a Cultural Journey in which they must respond to a series of questions to understand their own cultural heritage as the first steps to understanding the diverse needs of the students in their classroom. Elementary PDS interns attend seminar on teaching children from low income families from both rural and urban settings (e.g., Ruby Payne, SIOP strategies). In addition, all interns have field experiences and clinical practice in rural, urban, and/or Title I schools with mentor teachers to prepare the preservice teachers for those very settings. Secondary education majors' Phase I course work (pre-Student Teaching) uses extensive examples of cultural understanding and sensitivity when dealing with individual students. Examples include recognizing that all students do not have the same financial resources and parental support to conduct work at home and that certain behavior management techniques are not appropriate for certain cultural groups. In addition, course faculty emphasize the importance of understanding each student personally. Teachers cannot assume things based on general district demographics. Overall, all candidates are required to have at least one rural placement and one urban placement. In addition, the Teaching and Learning Portfolio requires candidates to identify and adjust for individual needs for each student in the class. Those adaptations are incorporated in lesson planning.

Assessment Pass Rates

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

>> Assessment Pass Rates

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. \(S205\(a\)\(1\)\(B\)\)

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact RTI's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

Summary Pass Rates

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. \(S205\(a\)\(1\)\(B\)\)

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact RTI's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

Low-Performing

1. Is your teacher preparation program currently approved or accredited?

- Yes
- No

If yes, please specify the organization(s) that approved or accredited your program:

- State
- CAEP
- AAQEP
- Other specify:

Higher Learning Commission

2. Is your teacher preparation program currently under a designation as "low-performing" by the state?

- Yes
- No

Use of Technology

1. Provide the following information about the use of technology in your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(F\))

Does your program prepare teachers to:

- a. integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction

Yes

No

- b. use technology effectively to collect data to improve teaching and learning

Yes

No

- c. use technology effectively to manage data to improve teaching and learning

Yes

No

- d. use technology effectively to analyze data to improve teaching and learning

Yes

No

2. Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

The elementary and secondary education programs integrate technology in several ways. First, elementary teacher education majors complete IT325 Instructional Technology for Educators (3 credit hours). The IT325 course is designed to supplement and enhance basic competencies in current instructional technologies. It is focused toward pre-service teachers; content is related to the field of education and is delivered through hands-on activities. Planning and integrating technology into the curriculum are emphasized with computer systems, Internet tools, evaluation tools, and software applications for presenting information for classroom use. Secondary teacher education majors are required to IT 360 Instructional Technology for Secondary Educators. IT 360 is designed to assist secondary education students develop fundamental technology integration skills by providing hands-on introduction to various technology devices and applications, with an emphasis on interdisciplinary uses of technologies in classroom teaching. Students will have an opportunity to develop lesson plans using technologies, discuss issues related to digital citizenship and become familiar with and integrate the standards to design and assess technology projects. All courses include gathering, analyzing, and presenting information to enhance instructional practices and meet National Educational Technology Standards. Every elementary/secondary education major provides their own mobile device, and its use is integrated into all elementary education preparation courses, as well as into the practicum setting. Students are learning to use the tool to support student learning. Secondary education majors may check out a Chromebook during their Phase I semester and are expected to integrate technology into their Phase I field experiences. Content area methods courses include candidates learning how to use content-specific technology to support student learning. The college is providing faculty professional development on technology education. In addition to required course work, the program's capstone assessment for all Bachelor of Science in Education students is completing the Teaching and Learning Portfolio (TLP). For the TLP, the candidate designs a two to three-week unit and outlines the instructional design for the unit in the order of the instructional activities. Part of the design must include technology, and the inclusion of technology is part of the TLP rubric. Third, candidates are required to do a 16 to 32 week student teaching placement in PK-12 schools. Their performance is assessed continually throughout the placement by academic supervisors, education supervisors, and cooperating/mentor teachers. Thus, the education program has two assessments for candidate use of technology in addition to the course-based assessments. Finally, providing opportunities for students to become familiar with the use of appropriate technology is expected in methods courses throughout the unit.

Teacher Training

1. Provide a description of the activities that prepare general education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

SD 550 Survey of Exceptionality is a required course for all education majors at Emporia State University. This course provides an introduction to each of the following exceptionalities: learning disabilities; attention deficit-hyperactivity disorder; emotional and behavior disorders; intellectual and developmental disabilities; speech and language disorders; deafness and hearing loss; visual impairments; autism spectrum disorders; physical and health disabilities; severe and multiple disabilities; gifted and talented. Specific information presented for each exceptionality includes: 1) etiology; 2) assessment; 3) characteristics; and 4) educational considerations. Additional topics include knowledge of inclusion, consultation and collaboration, legal issues, parent issues, materials and facilities, Response to Intervention or, as it is known in Kansas, Multi-Tier System of Supports, and multicultural issues. All elementary education majors complete a second required course SD560 Collaboration and Strategies for Inclusive Settings. This course provides the elementary classroom teacher with attitudes, skills, and strategies to educate children with a diverse range of learning needs in the general education classroom. This includes the gifted and talented, children with learning and behavior disabilities, distractibility and/or hyperactivity, health problems, sensory impairments, children who are at risk, and the culturally diverse. The teacher is provided with skills to increase the desire and ability to collaborate with other professionals, para-educators, and parents in a team effort. Throughout the semester, the students use a model that requires them to consider classroom demands, instructional methods, instructional materials, and classroom grouping when working with students with exceptionalities and students from various cultures. The course requirements are specifically designed to prepare the students in SD 560 to be effective teachers of all students, including those with exceptionalities and students from diverse backgrounds. Students demonstrate their knowledge of the course content by completing the following projects: using data to determine specific interventions to implement; modifying an actual chapter from a published curriculum, given learners' strengths and needs; designing a graphic organizer for specific curriculum content; determining specific learning strategies to teach students based upon students' needs; modifying daily assignments by using the Universal Design for Learning model; providing positive behavioral supports; describing methods to promote positive student interactions; describing various ways to make the classroom one that reflects and values all cultures in the classroom; and choosing assistive technologies to remove barriers caused by disabilities or language differences.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

SD 550 Survey of Exceptionality course activities which specifically provide training directly related to participation as a member of the IEP team consist of: 1) collaborative activities to create visual representations of the various components of the IEP; 2) collaborative activities to define the roles and responsibilities of the various members of an IEP team; and 3) participation in a simulated IEP meeting involving students assuming the roles of 13 members of the educational and other professional staff and the parents and their daughter who is being considered for placement in special education and the process for writing an IEP. In SD 560 Collaboration and Strategies for Inclusive Settings, to prepare students to be a member of an IEP team, they are required to describe the Multi-Tier System of Supports and the roles they must assume as general educators, using this method to determine if a child needs to be referred for assessment to receive special education services. Students in this class participate in a simulated IEP meetings, to prepare them to be an effective team member.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

One unit of study within SD 550 Survey of Exceptionality is devoted to Multicultural and Bilingual Perspectives. Within this unit the students learn how culture affects the learning process such as cognitive style (field independence and field sensitivity), and the effects of cultural dissonance. In addition they learn instructional methods commonly used with English Language Learners such as Bilingual Education, English as a Second Language and Sheltered English. Special emphasis is placed on the use of differentiated instruction for use with ELL students as well as those with disabilities.
